Golf

X Cricket is played on a large field by two teams of 11 players each. A player called the "bowler" throws the ball; he must try to hit the "wicket," which is made of three sticks planted in the ground. Another player, the "batsman," uses his bat to intercept the ball before it hits the wicket.

Many people think that cricket is rather slow and not particularly exciting: actually, a match can last up to five days! X

Cricket players wear white clothes and some of them wear gloves and a pad which protects their legs.
